[redacted] At approximately 12:35 AM, on 6/14/75, SA [redacted] approached and challenged one of the three individuals regarding the counter surveillance and made a cursory pat down for weapons. The individual who was challenged indicated that he was deaf and dumb and would not identify himself. He responded, however, to a whistle given by one of the two other unknown white males who were standing across Sullivan Street in the vicinity of 204 Sullivan. After the whistle summoning him was given, he ran off in a southerly direction on Sullivan Street.

NY 92-1450

[redacted] New York City was interviewed by SAS [redacted]
[redacted] and [redacted] and stated that she was well aware that VINCENT GIGANTE was running most of the illegal operations in Greenwich Village. She said that he owns quite a few bars and restaurants in the village which are supposedly fronted by other individuals. She could not be more specific as to which bars and which persons are fronting these establishments for GIGANTE.

According to [redacted] meetings were held by local "hoods" at the White Horse Tavern, West 11th and Hudson Street, New York City, at about 7:00 to 7:30 AM on weekdays on about a weekly basis. The meetings, she said, have subsided of late and she is not sure whether GIGANTE was in attendance at the meetings.

It should be noted that the [redacted] residence is not suitable for a physical plant on the restaurant called the White Horse.

On 5/9/75, the White Horse Tavern was checked between 7:00 and 8:00 AM for possible illegal activities with negative results.

Synopsis: Subject continues to reside in Greenwich Village, New York, and continues illegal activities. Subject observed at St. Anthony's Feast, Sullivan and Houston Streets, NY, NY, on 6/9 and 6/11/75. Surveillance of subject on 6/13/75, set forth. Investigation continuing.

* P *

DETAILS:

On January 14, 1975 and February 13, 1975, physical surveillances were made by a Special Agent of the FBI at the residence, 5 Arrowhead, Old Tappan, New Jersey; however, no unusual or pertinent activity was noted.

Cop JOHN CRAMER, Old Tappan, New Jersey Police Department (NJPD), was also contacted on above dates and he advised subject's family still resides at above address and he has not received any information to indicate subject has visited there.

Sources whose identities are concealed herein have furnished reliable information in the past except where otherwise noted.

NY 92-1450

On March 28, 1975, NY T-1 advised that [REDACTED] for CHIN.

Additionally, NY T-1 advised that "Del Samo's" Restaurant in New York City's theatre district, is owned in part by CHIN. Monday nights is settling up night at Samo's. [REDACTED] ph) (phonetic) can also be found here on Monday nights.

On April 1, 1975, NY T-2 advised that CHIN GIGANTE is currently using insanity as a defense in a federal case and therefore, he has been making himself very scarce. NY T-2 advised that GIGANTE has been staying at his mother's apartment on Thompson Street and has not been coming out on the street until after midnight. Usually around 12:30 - 1:00 AM, he can be found in the area of the social club on Spring and Thompson Streets. This club is across the street from My Lady's Bar.

NY T-2 further advised that "CHIN" GIGANTE allegedly controls all of the "queer" bars on the west side of Manhattan.

On April 9, 1975, NY T-3 advised that he knew JASPER SPECTAILE several years ago when SPECTAILE operated a bar called the 56th Street Cafe located at 56th Street and Second Avenue, New York City. NY T-3 stated that many of the top hoods from the various La Cosa Nostra (LCN) families in New York would frequent the 56th Street Cafe. On various occasions, NY T-3 noticed the following at the Cafe:

NICHOLAS "TIGS" TORLANDO

[REDACTED]
VINNIE MAURO
"CRAZY JOE" GALLO
VINCENT "CATTA" GIGANTE
[REDACTED]

NY 92-1450

CHIN GIGANTE seemed to be nothing more than a runner at the time and not nearly as much of a power in the GENOVESE family as he is now. However, GIGANTE was favored by GENOVESE. Today, NY T-3 believes that CHIN GIGANTE runs just about everything in Greenwich Village and is a major power in running the GENOVESE family.

On April 18, 1975, NY T-4 advised that he did not know GIGANTE personally, but was aware that GIGANTE operated just about everything in the Village. NY T-4 said he used to gamble at an after hours club on Thompson Street and said that it was known that GIGANTE owned it.

NY T-4 recalled that a former accountant of his, one [redacted] also known as (aka) [redacted] operated a lot of gambling games for GIGANTE. NY T-4 has been out of touch with [redacted] and does not know where he can be reached.

On May 1, 1975, a spot check of the Triangle Social Club, 205 Sullivan Street, and of the residence of VINCENT GIGANTE'S mother, 225 Sullivan Street, New York, New York, were negative. Likewise, a spot check of the White Horse Tavern, West 11th and Hudson Street, New York, New York, for the presence of VINCENT GIGANTE was also negative.

b7c

On June 3, 1975, Detective [redacted] Kings County Rackets Bureau, advised that a confidential source of his advised that a meeting was held on May 8, 1975, at approximately 8:00 PM, at the Hylon Motel on Staten Island, located just off the Bridge, between [redacted] and VINCENT "CHIN" GIGANTE. Also present at the meeting were JOE BRANCATO, [redacted] and one other individual unknown.

The purpose of this meeting was to straighten out the cigarette smuggling business of [redacted] who works for GIGANTE. According to source, two or three truck loads of cigarettes have been hijacked recently and a lot of people have been stuck for the money. Source advised that [redacted] did all the talking and directed [redacted] to make good on all the losses, and to get [redacted] in line.

NY 92-1450

b6

BRANCATO did not talk, but just sat back and listened to the entire meeting, which lasted approximately two hours.

On June 9, 1975, NY T-3 advised that he was at the Saint Anthony's Feast, Sullivan and Houston Streets, New York City, on the evening of June 8, 1975, and noticed a group of apparent "wiseguys" gathered at a set of tables behind a fence next to the ferris wheel. The tables were set up with table cloths and resembled an outdoor restaurant. The area was definitely off limits to patrons of the feast and the entrance to the area described was watched over by bodyguards. NY T-3 stated that he did not recognize all of the individuals seated at the tables, but guessed they were "GENOVESE family" connected and possibly part of CHIN GIGANTE'S crew, because he did identify CHIN GIGANTE, [redacted] and Councilman LOUIS GIGANTE. In all there were about 12-15 persons at the tables. About four of those present were women. These individuals were served food by Councilman GIGANTE from two nearby concession booths operated by "Vincent's." NY T-3 does not know whether these booths are operated by Vincent's Restaurant on Mott Street or by VINCENT GIGANTE. Councilman GIGANTE had free access to the booths and to the food specialties they contained. NY T-3 believes he also saw [redacted] at the tables.

On the evening of June 9, 1975, VINCENT GIGANTE and his brother Councilman LOUIS GIGANTE were observed seated with a party of 12 to 14 persons at a group of tables behind a fence at the St. Anthony's feast at the corner of Houston and Sullivan Streets, New York, New York. VINCENT GIGANTE, who was clean-shaven and cleanly dressed appeared to be very bright and alert and was the center of attention among the group. The area where they were located was not opened to the patrons of the feast and appeared to be watched over by two body guards who were standing near the gateway entrance to the tables.

Councilman GIGANTE served those present at the tables food obtained from nearby concession booths operated by Vincent's (not known to be connected with the restaurant on Nott Street, New York, New York or run by VINCENT GIGANTE). Councilman GIGANTE did not pay for the food and moved freely about the concessions that were named Vincent's.

NY 92-1450

On the evening of June 11, 1975, VINCENT GIGANTE and LOUIS GIGANTE were observed in the vicinity of Houston Street and Sullivan Street. It appeared from the type of activity LOUIS GIGANTE was engaged in that he was the person responsible for the operation of the three booths at the St. Anthony's Feast selling food under the name of Vincent's.

[redacted] was observed near the intersection of Houston and Sullivan Street. He was engaged in conversation by SA [redacted] and during that conversation was approached by LOUIS GIGANTE. GIGANTE embraced and kissed [redacted]. He remarked that it was his intention to visit the church of LOUIS GIGANTE for the purpose of making a donation to that church and receiving a blessing from GIGANTE.

A short time later [redacted] was observed to be sitting at a table inside a fenced off area behind the booth operated by LOUIS GIGANTE. Also seated at the table drinking wine with [redacted] were LOUIS GIGANTE and VINCENT GIGANTE.

NY 92-1450

[redacted] On the evening of June 13, 1975, SA [redacted]
[redacted] engaged in conversation an unknown white male, who was operating a beer and soda concession at the St.
Anthony's Feast on Sullivan near Houston Streets, New York City, concerning the general operation of the booths at the feast. This individual stated that he was able to set up his booth by first contacting a man who operates a candy and nut concession in front of 142 Sullivan Street.
He said this man is in charge of allocating space for the concessionaires, and is also liaison between the concession operators and St. Anthony's Church.

b6
b7C

The unknown male advised that his stand was originally set up as a clam and seafood stand, but was forced out of business due to a very high rate of competition by another nearby booth that was also selling seafoods. The name of this booth is Vincent's. When asked if this booth was in any way connected with the restaurant by the name of Vincent's of Mott Street, the unknown male stated that it was not and was operated by VINCENT GIGANTE.
